Plan for using and disseminating the knowledge

Section 1 - Exploitable knowledge and its Use

Profet Policy is by definition a project that targets the dissemination of knowledge generated through EC-funded RTD projects in the manner described in both the Description of Work and the associated activity and management reports of the project.

The IPR of individual RTD projects remains evidently with the Consortia/Partners of individual projects or have defined these in their individual actions.

Consequently, Profet Policy can only aspire to

1. the non-commercial dissemination of the summaries of such projects
2. the interpretations of such research within the policy background documents (prepared within the project) and
3. the conclusions and recommendations of the individual workshops that were realised during the course of the project.

The potential exploitable knowledge is, in fact, the gathering of the research summaries and the conclusions/recommendations of the individual workshops – which, since having been financed through public funding, should not be exploitable in a commercial sense but are the target of the widest dissemination possible.

Overview table

Exploitable Knowledge (description)	Exploitable product(s) or measure(s)	Sector(s) of application	Timetable for commercial use	Patents or other IPR protection	Owner & Other Partner(s) involved
1. Summary documents (TLs) on EC-funded RTD projects on fisheries and aquaculture	Downloadable and printed copy	Public and professional interest in RTD on aquaculture and fisheries	2007-2014	No patents or IPR protection are foreseen	Profet Policy partnership
2. Background documents on European policies affecting fisheries and aquaculture	Downloadable and printed copy	Public and professional interest in RTD on aquaculture and fisheries	2007-2014	No patents or IPR protection are foreseen	Profet Policy partnership
3. Profet Policy website	Complete project documentation – presentations and workshop conclusions	Public and professional interest in RTD on aquaculture and fisheries	2007-2014	No patents or IPR protection are foreseen	Profet Policy partnership

Section 2 – Dissemination of knowledge

The value of the Technical Leaflets (TLs), the Policy Background documents and the Workshop presentations is appreciated by many.

The project has received many compliments on the quality of these (notably as the printed copies of Technical Leaflets and Policy Background documents that were provided to workshop participants).

In addition, 2 facilities in the Website allow access to the core products of Profet Policy:

- 1) The Library (Section)
 - a) Where TLs have been filed by relevance to structural or core issues
- 2) Technical Leaflet (section)
 - a) Separated into Fisheries or Aquaculture
 - b) The complete listing of all TLs (titled by subject content)

In addition, Site search facilities can be used on a key-word basis that will also locate appropriate TLs.

It has been agreed that the FEAP Secretariat will continue to maintain the PROFET POLICY website for a further 5 years (until 2014) and to update it with appropriate information as it becomes available.

In addition, the European Aquaculture Technology and Innovation Platform provides additional access to the Aquaculture Technical Leaflets.

A comparable library facility has been included which presents all of the aquaculture technical leaflets developed within the project.

Remaining hard copy publications prepared for PROFET POLICY Workshops will be distributed at the 2009 Aquaculture Europe Conference and at selected EATIP meetings during 2009.

Finally – instead of manufacturing CDs (unknown audience size), a downloadable copy of the Profet Policy website is to be prepared – enabling interested users to either make a hard copy of the projects documents or to keep this on individual computers.

Section 3 - Publishable Results

The publishable results are:

- 1) The Technical Leaflets
- 2) The Policy Background documents
- 3) The Workshop conclusions and recommendations

These are all available on the website and additional publicity will be given to this in future press releases of the FEAP and EATIP.
