OCEAN ACTION WORKSHOP

PROJECT GOALS

- Understanding the various human activities and their impact on the marine ecosystem.
- Developing awareness of the Sustainable Development Goals and concepts of Ocean Literacy.
- Demonstrating that by acting locally you may have an impact on global changes.
- Shaping the ability to cooperate and jointly create pro-environmental actions/campaigns.
- Planning and organizing actions by groups at school or in the local community to raise awareness of the dangers of climate and ocean changes.
- Exchange of information, good practices and lessons learnt from undertaken actions during the International Youth Conference Where the World is Heading, which is organized to close each project edition.

We can all imagine that after a year of a global pandemic the numbers are even bigger, here is a simple calculation we made:

Romania's population is around 19,140,207 people, and if 20% of them throw the masks on the streets or lose them that makes around 3,828,041 masks that pollute every day.

Remember that your improperly thrown mask can kill the marine life or the birds,
BE RESPONSIBLE AND SAVE A LIFE!
